

MIKE AND SUE . . . fourth generation.

Graduation From NWU 'Runs In The Family'

Mike and Sue Thompson Hoevet will be the fourth generation of his family to become alumni of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

They will join a 1966 graduating class of 219 at SNWU's 77th commencement weekend gets under way.

Activities started Friday with the annual Phi Kappa Phi banquet. Both Mike and Sue were initiated into the scholastic honorary.

Saturday's events include the Board of Trustees and Alumni Association meetings, luncheons for the honor classes of 1916, 26, 41 and 56, and the president's garden party from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The Alumni Association banquet is set for 6 p.m. Saturday. Robert E. Cumming, editor of "Music Journal," and a native of Lincoln, will speak.

Sunday activities include baccalaureate at 11 a.m. in the Auditorium-Fine Arts Center and commencement at 3 p.m. in O.N. Magee Stadium.

Dr. Vance D. Rogers will deliver the baccalaureate address. Dr. Hurst R. Anderson, president of American University in Washington, D.C., will deliver the commencement address.

Mike's family tree at Nebraska Wesleyan begins with his great grandfather the Rev. George A. Hobson, an 1885 alum of York College, which was incorporated into NWU.

His grandmother, Maggie Hobson Hoevet, was a member of the class of 1902. Dr. Leo Hoevet of Chadron, his father, graduated in 1931. His aunt, Mrs. Dawson Hoevet Wischmeier was a 1937 grad.

Sue and Mike both graduated from Chadron high. She has been teaching this semester at Syracuse after completing degree requirements in January.

Mike, a biology major, will continue his studies in medicine at Baylor Medical School at Houston. Sue plans to either teach or continue graduate work with her husband in Houston.

FIDEL ALERTS HIS FORCES

'Provocations' By U.S. Cited

. . . AT GUANTANAMO

Havana (P)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Friday night ordered a state of alert for the Cuban armed forces "and all the Cuban people" as a result of what he called provocations by the United States against Cuba.

Castro declared in a communique read over radio and television that U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk had "practically threatened Cuba with war" in asking that Cuba put an end to incidents along the perimeter of the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, in southeast Cuba.

Castro warned the United States that Cuba would never "abandon custody of our territory, which is virtually what Rusk is demanding . . ." Instead, he said, "what we will do immediately is to put our revolutionary armed forces and all of the people of Cuba in a state of alert."

The prime minister denied a Defense Department statement saying six Cuban soldiers slipped into Guantanamo Naval Base and exchanged gun fire with American sentries Monday night.

Castro reiterated Cuban claims that U. S. forces had shot to death a Cuban sentry the night of May 21 while he was standing guard in Cuban territory.

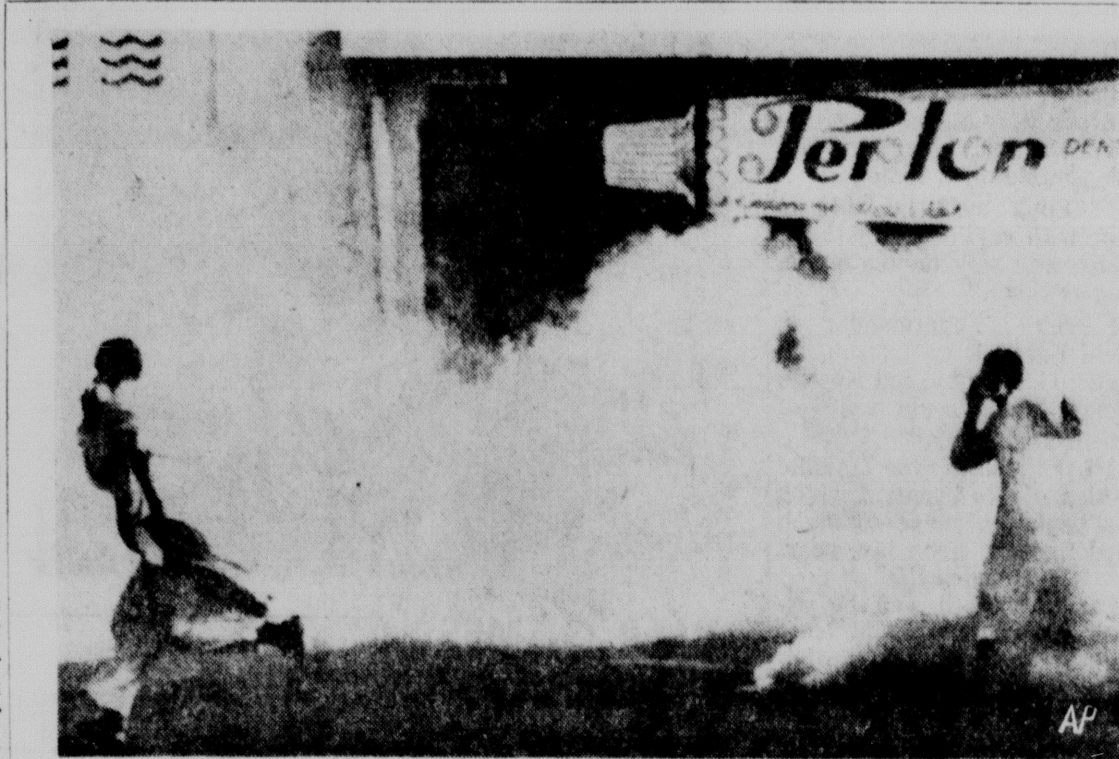

Such incidents have never been instigated by Cuban forces, Castro asserted.

He said the United States should not bother to send a diplomatic note on such incidents because it would not be accepted.

Because of the new U.S. charges by Rusk and the Defense Department, "an imperialist aggression against Cuba may be in the making," Castro declared. If so, Cuba will be ready, he said.

"Maybe by such improbable and false declarations they are trying to create psychological conditions to unleash an aggression against our country." He called the U.S. charges cynical, repugnant and cowardly and compared them to false charges made by Nazism and Fascism.

DASH BY BUDDHISTS . . . through clouds of tear gas in Saigon.

VIET NAM . . .

Monks Nix Ky Feeler; He Sees Thi

Saigon (P)—South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky extended a peace feeler to the Buddhists Friday and conferred under U.S. auspices with his chief military foe, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh Thi. Monks rejected the peace feeler. Secrecy veiled conference results.

Elsewhere in the kaleidoscope of crisis that the military government hopes now to end without further recourse to arms:

—Tear gas and warning shots from Vietnamese marines suppressed rioting by a howling mob of 2,000 or 3,000 anti-government, anti-American demonstrators who marched in torchlit procession from a rally at the Buddhist Institute in Saigon.

—Civil authority collapsed in Hue, a stronghold of Buddhism and rebellion 400 miles north of Saigon. The mayor, Lt. Col. Phan Van Khoa, who is also governor of Thua Thien province, pulled out with 1,000 loyal troops and set up headquarters at Hung Thuy, five miles away. Forty-five American and other foreign nationals also quit the city. Others took shelter at the heavily guarded U.S. military Assistance Command compound.

—Operating far from the centers of unrest, Vietnamese troops reported killing 94 Viet Cong and capturing 50 in a series of brisk fights Thursday in the Mekong Delta. Government losses in one case, a defensive action against about 600 Red raiders, were called heavy. Elsewhere the war continued at a relatively ordinary pace.

Ky and his chief military rival held their hush-hush meeting at U.S. Marine headquarters at Chu Lai, 340 miles northeast of Saigon and 52 miles south of Da Nang, where government forces crushed a Buddhist-led uprising Monday. A U.S. plane brought Thi in from Hue.

It was the military junta's dismissal of Thi March 10 as commander of the 1st Corps area, the five northern provinces of South Viet Nam, that set off the current uproar for quick restoration of the civilian rule which Ky has promised for late 1967.

Before leaving Saigon to take personal charge of damping down the remaining embers of revolt in the north, Ky had made a gesture of peace to the Buddhist hierarchy.

He ordered down the triple fences of barbed wire with which security forces blocked the entrance to Saigon's main pagoda four days ago.

UP Industry Plan Could Lift Economy

By BOB SCHREPP

Star Staff Writer

If development of the Union Pacific Railroad's new industrial tract follows the pattern of UP efforts in other cities, Lincoln could experience a significant and healthy impact on its economy in the not-too-distant future.

In announcing the railroad's land acquisition northwest of the city, John W. Godfrey, chief executive officer of Union Pacific's Land division, noted that since the disclosure earlier this year of development of two similar raw land tracts in Denver, large portions of both sites have been committed to industrial occupancy.

Godfrey further said that two other UP tracts in Denver are completely filled with industrial users.

To Be Developed

The railroad made known its intentions for the 985-acre land package at a luncheon Friday. Attending were Gov. Frank Morrison, Mayor Dean Peterseh, Chamber of Commerce representatives, Lincoln businessmen and UP officials.

The land was assembled for the railroad over the past several months by Lincoln realtor Oliver DeMars. It will be developed for industrial sites at a cost of more than a million dollars.

The plot is east of the municipal airport, between the Interstate Highway and the Union Pacific tracks. The southern border of the irregular-shaped tract is the road leading to the airport from the Interstate and it extends north for two miles to U.S. 34.

The railroad has no immediate industrial prospect in mind, said Godfrey, "but we are in constant contact with industry throughout the nation. We plan to put the site high in the catalogue of areas for industrial development."

The railroad has started an engineering study of the site for development and it is scheduled to be ready for occupancy early next year. "We would accelerate our development if an industry requiring a large occupancy wanted to move in," said Godfrey.

Entire Area
Union Pacific proposes to develop the entire area, starting with the southern portion, with trackage, paved streets, sewers and utilities.

The UP tract is the largest land acquisition in the history of the Lincoln area. It is also the largest single raw land tract in the railroad's chain of industrial complexes.

"This is part of our program to acquire land in prime areas which the UP serves," Godfrey said. "We are very enthusiastic about the prospects of the Lincoln area . . . this is the culmination of our earlier promise to you."

Godfrey said that while the development will attract outside industry, "We expect a certain healthy percentage of hometown industry that wants to expand to move in, because they are certainly welcome. Once we get started, we expect a flow of expansion."

He promised that the Union Pacific program here will "do nothing to deter the efforts of other groups who are promoting industrial development locally."

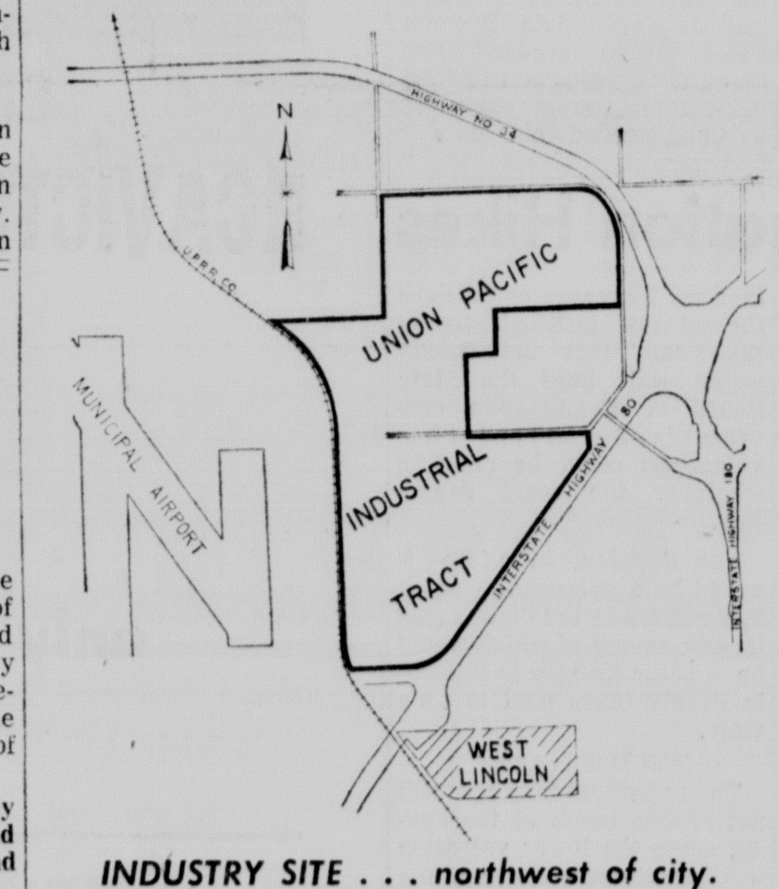

Enhanced By Merger
Godfrey indicated that the value of the site to Lincoln would be greatly enhanced by the merger of the Union Pacific and Rock Island railroads, now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"This may take up to three years, but we are quite confident we will prevail," the railroad executive added.

U.S. To Keep Troops In Germany, Rusk Says

Washington (P)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday the United States plans to keep its large military forces in Germany and voiced hope for "solid progress" soon in revamping NATO after France's pullout.

America's European allies have been told "our forces will remain there as long as they are needed and wanted," Rusk reported at a news conference preceding his departure next week for a meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministers in Brussels, Belgium, June 6-8.

With U.S. commitments growing in Viet Nam and continuing elsewhere, and with NATO disarray from French withdrawal from its integrated military setup, substantial sentiment has developed in Congress for a reduction in the 225,000-man U.S. force in West Europe under NATO.

Rusk stressed too that the NATO allies should be not only a defensive organization, but also should "try to search for a solution of some of the larger, outstanding problems that divide East and West."

French President Charles de Gaulle has pictured NATO as an impediment to reducing East-West tensions. Rusk said NATO has in the past and should in the future look for settlements with the communist countries, and he named German reunification as the No. 1 European problem between the cold war adversaries.

On other areas of the world, Rusk predicted further nuclear testing by Red China and said he favors policing by an international group to insure Cambodia's neutrality and independence.

His remarks on Cambodia came in reply to a question about a statement made earlier in the day by Army Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen that there is evidence that North Vietnamese regiments are massed in Cambodia, presumably for a drive into South Viet Nam. (Story on Page 2.)

Rusk said he knew nothing of this report.

Marine Says He Did Not Hit Recruit

San Diego, Calif. (P)—Sgt. Russell P. Armstrong testified Friday that he has never struck a Marine Corps recruit.

Armstrong took the witness stand in his own defense at his general court martial on charges of assault and maltreatment of Pvt. Robert F. Pierce Jr., 23, of Omaha, S.D. Pierce, now a patient at an Oakland Naval hospital, says that Armstrong, 23, struck him five or six times in the kidney area. Pierce is being treated for a kidney ailment.

Armstrong, of Omaha, Neb., said Friday that Pierce refused to try to do certain physical training exercises with the rest of his recruit platoon.

He said that he may have used profanity and told Pierce that he was going to be confined for disobeying a direct order.

He denied that he ever struck Pierce or that he took him into a hut where the assault allegedly occurred.

Armstrong said that his contact with Pierce had been limited to kicking his feet into proper position for attention. Armstrong's platoon commander, Staff Sgt. Harry K. Davis, testified earlier Friday that he doubts that Armstrong struck Pierce. Davis gave his testimony at the hospital where he is a patient.

Three Tots Suffocate In Icebox

Sioux City, Iowa (P)—Three small children, members of a family of 10, suffocated Friday afternoon when they crawled into an abandoned refrigerator at their farm home on the eastern outskirts of Sioux City.

The youngsters were Cindy Elaine, 5, Dwight Evan, 4, and Jerald D. children of Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Benson.

The Woodbury County sheriff's office said the tots had been playing around a storage house on the farm and one of them pulled the door shut after they crawled into the old refrigerator.

Found By Father
The bodies were found by the father about 4:40 p.m. after he had driven into Sioux City to pick up his wife, who works at a wearing apparel factory there.

The three, youngest of eight children of the Bensons, had been left in the care of a sister, Connie, 14.

The Bensons bought the farm last summer and had moved there from Ponca, Neb. Previously they had lived at South Sioux City, Neb.

A relative said Benson purchased the farm so those children would have a safe place to play.

The father told authorities the refrigerator was in the storage room at the time they moved.

Others In School
The other children in the family were in the field Friday afternoon. They are Dennis 12, Darrel, 10, Randy, 6, and Chris, 7.

Officers said the storage house was about a block from the farmhouse but was clearly visible from there.

Connie said she had seen the children playing around about 2:30 while the father was in the field.

Benson started looking for the tots after bringing his wife home from work.

The bodies were found in the refrigerator on top of each other.

Callan Boosts Air Academy

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., reviewed his proposal for a civilian air academy located on the Lincoln Air Force Base property Friday night before a meeting of the Lincoln Squadron Air Association.

He warned the group that though the support of the program is increasing, "it's up to all of us from here on in to keep the ball rolling."

"The academy was not originally my idea," he said. "Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., was the original proponent behind a bill to establish an academy of this nature."

"The vast demand for pilots even today is creating expectations that at the rate we're going now, we're going to have serious shortages of pilots in private and commercial aviation," he said.

"There is a choice between federal and private backing for this program," Callan said. "I feel that we should utilize all the resources available to us to put this program through."

"We're part of a federal system," he pointed out, "and if federal resources are the answer, we ought to get in and take part," Callan said.

"But it's going to be a long time before we can be sure of where we stand on this thing. Right now I think we should be developing both means," he said.

"I can see no objection to a civilian air academy in similar to the Air Force's academy in Colorado Springs financed with any kind of backing," he noted.

He pointed out the interest among private businesses such as Northern Natural Gas Co. in the venture. Northern has agreed to put its profits from the Job Corps unit proposed for the base back into such an academy to encourage industrial developments.

Stimulate Growth
"Many feel that the academy would stimulate the growth of an industrial complex around the area," Callan said.

The Job Corps and the civilian air academy proposals are compatible, he said.

"One of the reasons I feel Lincoln is an ideal location for such an academy is that in the years of LAFB's existence, only 1.5% of its flight schedule was delayed because of inclement weather," he noted.

"The problem is, how to get this thing together. There will certainly be problems in the future—manpower and technical assistance among many others," he said.

Tiemann Reports Costly $70,465 Campaign; Nearly Half Advertising

Norbert T. (Nobby) Tiemann, a small town banker who moved swiftly from anonymity to upset one of Nebraska's best-known political figures, was disclosed Friday to have spent $70,465 in his successful bid for the Republican Party nomination for governor.

It was believed one of the most expensive primary efforts ever waged by a candidate in Nebraska history.

Tiemann, 41, defeated former three-term Gov. Val Peterson, also a one-time American ambassador to Denmark, in the GOP primary. He was the underdog all the way.

His expense statement, filed with the Nebraska secretary of state's office showed nearly $31,000 was spent on advertising alone, including $13,804 for television spots.

Another major item was $14,352 for printing and supplies.

Lincoln attorney Dave Pierson, Tiemann's Lancaster County campaign chairman, said Tiemann would foot $44,408 of the bill "out of his pocket."

The $19,057 remainder will be funded from contributions.

All but $2,761 of the expenses were handled by Tiemann's campaign committees.

Tiemann spent the $2,761 for day-to-day costs such as food and lodging.

Truck Rams Bus Carrying 33 U.S. Tourists In Italy

Chiavari, Italy (UPI)—A bus carrying 33 American tourists was rammed broadside by a truck Friday while on the way from Pisa to Rapallo.

First reports indicated 16 persons were hospitalized. Ten others were treated at hospitals and released. The remaining seven apparently were not injured.

Among those hospitalized was Cark Williams Rudat, 66, of Nebraska.

and 600 personal appearances in all 93 Nebraska counties during the primary campaign.

Huge billboards carrying the candidate's picture and calling for "new faces, new ideas" appeared in all parts of the state.

At one point in the campaign, Peterson implied that Tiemann was spending way too much and demanded he list his expenses.

A summary of Tiemann's expenditures: Personal expenses, $2,761; publication advertising, $10,469; radio advertising, $1,500; television advertising, $13,805; bus advertising, $1,500; billboards, $7,362; printing and supplies, $14,352; telephone and postage, $5,066; surveys (polls), $5,003, and miscellaneous, $6,075.

Tiemann, president of the Bank of Wausa, will face Democrat Lt. Gov. Philip C. Sorensen, younger brother of former White House aide Theodore Sorensen, in the Nov. 8 general election.

Sorensen reported earlier that he spent $7,826 to win the Democratic Party nomination.

Tiemann, who admittedly modeled some of his campaign techniques after the Kennedy machine of 1960, utilized saturation advertising

General Says 6 Hanoi Units In Cambodia

... PENTAGON DISPUTES HIM

Washington (AP)—An Army general fresh from Viet Nam said Friday there is evidence that up to six regiments of North Vietnamese regulars are massed in Cambodia for a possible drive into South Viet Nam. The Defense Department promptly disputed his statement.

Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen said there is "plenty of evidence" of such a troop concentration — which could amount to as much as 10,000 — in a position where it could menace the mid-section of South Viet Nam.

But five hours after Larsen's talk with newsmen, the Defense Department issued a statement which said:

"While there have been unconfirmed reports for months of North Vietnamese activity in Cambodia, there exists no evidence strong enough for the commander of the United States Military Assistance Command Viet Nam to validate the presence of any North Vietnamese regiment in Cambodia at this time."

Intelligence Estimates
The Pentagon statement added, "There is today no North Vietnamese regiment" carried on the intelligence estimates in Cambodia as either confirmed, probable or possible.

It went on: "On several occasions during the past few months, reports have been received from the field indicating that North Vietnamese regiments were stationed in Cambodia."

"Investigation of these reports, however, has not substantiated them."

Stands Corrected
Reached after the Defense Department contradicted him, Larsen told a reporter:

"I stand corrected. I'm not going to question my superiors about what they say."

"The Defense Department has a lot more information to go on than I have. They look at it from a broader picture. I look at it from the standpoint of a field soldier."

"If they say that there is no conclusive evidence, then that is the way it is."

At his news conference in the Pentagon, Larsen was flanked by a top department information official who made no effort to alter or tone down the officer's remarks.

Along with his report of the concentration, the general had this confident prediction:

"I think we'll be able to cope with anything they throw at us, any way they want to, rain or shine."

Larsen is commander of Field Force 1, comprising all major U.S. Army and Korean ground forces in about 40% of South Viet Nam.

This includes the middle section of the country, which has been the scene of much hard fighting since last year.

Division HQ
Larsen said it can be assumed that there is at least one North Vietnamese division headquarters in the Cambodian area across the border from South Viet Nam.

A North Vietnamese regiment at full strength totals some 1,800 men.

The general said the evidence of a strong North Vietnamese buildup in Cambodia comes from interrogation of prisoners and from the reports of Montagnards and other South Vietnamese civilians who cross back and forth across the ill-defined border.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., told the Senate last Monday that he had it "on good authority"—which he didn't further identify—that communist troops are massing in Cambodia for a major attack into South Viet Nam.

The Cambodian government has denied repeatedly that its territory is being used as a communist sanctuary.

In its unusual move of challenging the judgment of a field commander who normally would be expected to have the latest intelligence data, the Defense Department said North Vietnamese units fighting in the central highlands of South Viet Nam "may occasionally pass across the ill-defined border that lies between Cambodia and South Viet Nam in that region."

Cuba, Red China Sign Trade Pact

Havana (AP)—Cuba and Red China, which came to the brink of a diplomatic break over their sugar-rice trade pact earlier this year, have reached a new agreement for exchange of the commodities, it was announced here Friday. No details of the 1966 agreement were made public.

The agreement was reportedly signed by Benigno Riquelme, Cuban foreign trade vice minister, and Communist Chinese Ambassador Wang Yu-Ping.

The disagreement between the two countries exploded last January when Premier Fidel Castro accused Red China of reneging on an agreement to provide as much rice as Cuba needed this year.

County Eliminates Valuation Hikes

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The Lancaster County Board of Equalization Friday took action to eliminate the 28% city and 15% rural property valuation hikes set by the state and ordered that the valuations be adjusted to the amounts prior to the state's ruling last August.

William Grossman, chairman of the equalization board said the board passed the resolution to this effect to avoid the possibility of indirectly setting illegal real estate valuations for the 1966-67 fiscal year if the Supreme Court should rule in favor of the county in its appeal of the State Board of Equalization increases.

Grossman said that the state law provides that the county boards of equalization can decrease real estate valuations only during the time when the board is in session from April 1 to May 30, but can increase anytime.

If the Supreme Court should declare the 28% and 15% increases illegal, the county could not legally decrease the valuation, and it would be in a position of setting assessments at more than the value approved by the court.

Precautionary

The county's action is a precautionary one, Grossman explained, in that if such action were not taken prior to May 30, the owners of some 80,000 pieces of property in Lancaster County would be forced to appeal their valuations to the courts for relief.

If the Supreme Court rules that the increases or portions thereof are justified, Grossman said that the county would wait until the State Board of Equalization convenes in August and the valuations could be reset to whatever the court deems just.

The decision, in effect, would be a decrease in about $142 million in tax dollars, the largest saving of which would be in some $500,000 to $600,000 in county taxes paid to the state.

Not Much Saving

The individual taxpayer will not realize much of the saving since the lower valuation will necessitate raising the mill levy. The county board was able to lower mill levies for 1965-66 because of the 28% and 15% increase ordered by the state.

Large businesses and grain elevators may realize a substantial saving in taxes, the commissioners noted.

Anti-Darwin Law Ousted In Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas' anti-evolution law, one of three remaining in the nation, was struck down Friday as an unconstitutional restriction on the quest for knowledge.

Chancellor Judge Murray Reed ruled in favor of Mrs. Susan Epperson, a 24-year-old biology teacher who filed suit earlier this year challenging the constitutionality of the law.

"It sounds very good and I'm very happy about it," Mrs. Epperson said at Little Rock Central High School.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, who defended the 38-year-old law as a bulwark against atheistic religion, has said he is prepared to fight the issue to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Reed said the law restricts the freedom to learn and the freedom to teach by banning a theory that is not a hazard to the safety, health and morals of the community.

The same rule would apply to textbooks, he said.

Even if such a theory posed a hazard, the law—which applies only to public schools—would be unconstitutional because it does not give equal protection to private and parochial schools, Reed ruled.

Undeclared War Unofficially Over

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP)—Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak of Malaysia declared Friday Indonesia's 3-year-old undeclared war against his country has "unofficially ended."

This is proved, he said, by the unprecedented visit of an Indonesian goodwill mission made up of military men, most of them connected with the "crush Malaysia" command, which directed the confrontation.

going to have no more white people shoot Negroes and us not do something about it," he told the crowd.

Police estimated about 350 Negroes made the long march through dark streets from a Negro church to the Jefferson County Courthouse steps.

Evers, state director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged Negroes to wait until the 1967 elections, when they could take control of the county by legal means. He said Negroes would outnumber whites in voting strength by 4 to 1.

A white man, K. D. Dennis, 50, of Fayette, was arrested Thursday night and charged with shooting with intent to kill Charles Knight, 16, of near Fayette.

Justice of the Peace Carl A. Brown ordered Dennis, a retired labor foreman for a bridge-building firm, held to the Jefferson County Grand Jury convening Sept. 19. The judge freed Dennis under $5,000 bond.

How Russia Persecutes Church Is Told

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

A detailed account of the methods used by Soviet Russia to persecute churches was made public Friday by the U.S. National Council of Churches.

The account came from two young priests of the Russian Orthodox Church, Fr. Nicholas Eshliman and Fr. Gleb Yakunin, both of Moscow.

They addressed a letter of protest to Soviet President N. S. Khrushchev, charging that the government agency in charge of Russian Orthodox Church affairs has "flagrantly violated" the laws—widely advertised in communist propaganda—which purport to guarantee religious freedom to Soviet citizens.

Authentic
A copy of the letter, dated Dec. 15, came into the possession of the International Commission of the National Council of Churches, which collects information on the status of religion in communist-dominated areas. A spokesman said the commission had verified the authenticity of the priests' letter.

The 10,000-word letter cites chapter-and-verse to show how the Soviet government violates its own religious freedom laws.

Here are some of the abuses protested by the two priests:

—The government bureau which oversees the Russian Orthodox Church has "widely employed the illegal practice of revoking the registration of the clergy as a means of administrative pressure on the clergy." It also interferes in the "assignment and transfer" of priests.

—During the period 1961-

64, under the personal direction of (former) Premier Nikita Khrushchev, an active campaign was conducted for the massive closing of Orthodox Churches. No less than 10,000 churches and dozens of monasteries were closed during the campaign. The campaign also "led to the barbaric destruction of a large amount of irreplaceable works of art."

—During recent years "government authorities have established new regulations requiring that 'every citizen who wishes to be baptized, or to be married in the church, or to baptize his children,' must fill out an official registration form. The registration forms are then systematically scrutinized" and the information is used for discrimination against citizens who participate in religious rites.

—Although Soviet law specifically authorizes religious services "both in and outside the church," priests have received verbal orders that they may no longer conduct blessings, prayer services or other rites in private homes, or perform burial services in cemeteries.

—During recent years authorities established a practice of forcibly keeping children out of church life. The priests did not elaborate on the measures used, except to say that children were barred from taking communion and were physically prevented from "entering churches at the time of the great religious feasts" such as Christmas and Easter.

Gemini 9 Rescheduled Again

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—The double-barreled Gemini 9 blastoff was postponed another 24 hours Friday — until Wednesday — to give launch pad technicians time for more tests on an Atlas rocket that must hoist the astronaut's rendezvous target into orbit.

"We'll get off one of these days," quipped astronaut Thomas P. Stafford.

Launch pad technicians — partly hampered by bad weather — reportedly were about 20 hours behind the super-tight schedule drawn up in hope of achieving a two-week recycle after another Atlas, launched from the same spot, misfired two minutes after liftoff May 17, ruining the first Gemini 9 attempt.

Air Force Lt. Col. Stafford's Gemini 9 copilot is Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan. They plan to visit the doctor Saturday for a major physical examination.

Pinch Could Be On

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Recent increases in interest rates are finally beginning to be felt across the nation, including Lincoln. First to feel the pinch, of course, is the homebuilding and real estate industry. The Wall Street Journal reports that a National Association of Home Builders economist cites cutbacks already of 20 to 30 percent in various parts of the country. April statistics, said the Journal, even showed a downturn in building permit grants in the Midwest, where first-quarter activity was strong.

Builders point to the increase in interest rates as well as higher labor costs as big factors in the slowdown. Much the same thing is heard right here in Lincoln where money is reported scarce and the real estate market in homes as sluggish. And in Washington, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler has asked Congress to remove the 4.25 percent ceiling on longer term government bonds. If Congress does this, it will encourage still higher interest rates. The public should remember that it was the Federal Reserve Board, not the federal government administration, that started the ball rolling on higher interest rates by increasing its discount rates.

One wonders if the day will not come when we will operate with a much more enlightened economic philosophy than this. The purpose of lighter interest rates, supposedly, is to curtail inflation but what is the ultimate result of such an increase? It puts more profits into the hands of the wealthy at the expense of lower income groups who make extensive use of credit.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon said in an address that unless something is done about inflation, we will surely have a recession. Nixon can hardly lose with that proposition. If a recession would hit, he could blame it on inflation. If not, he can continue to talk about inflation. And if the economy remains steady, he has at least lost nothing.

The situation, of course, is not one-sided but a complication of many things and many opinions. Contributing to the claim of inflation is the government's consumer price index of April which shows a 3.2 point hike from a year ago. While prices in some areas are lower than they have been in the past, many retailers still look for continued inflationary trends. Thus, exactly what the state of the economy is cannot even be said with certainty, much less exactly what ought to be done to improve it. But hiking interest rates is probably the most discriminatory means there is of curtailing an upsurge in the economy. Rather than improving the hard goods position of the consumer, it simply adds to the service cost of his spending, an end result which is of no benefit to him.

It would be a much improved situation if the means could be found of fighting inflation by securing for consumers simply a better buy for their money. This, of course, means price stability which sort of runs us back into a circle. How you bring about price stability without the kind of government controls few people want is the unanswered question that produces such things as higher interest rates. Again, it is shown that there is substantial room for refinement of our economic system, even though it remains the best system yet devised by man.

Details of a system that conflicts with our own will probably be under scrutiny in a unique development that has taken place in Europe. East and West Germany have agreed to a series of debates between the two countries on the relative merits of their two ways of life.

Reportedly, it remains only to iron out some of the details before the unusual situation will come about. This is an approach that should be given every encouragement by the West. What a tremendous thing it would be if the conflicting ideologies of the world could be debated before the citizens of all countries.

Such a thing would break down the anomaly of secluded life behind the Iron Curtain, would tend to break up the dichotomous relationship between East and West that exists today.

A Step Toward Understanding

If the people of all countries had a better understanding of social, political and economic structures of their neighbors in the world, a big step toward compatibility would have been taken. This is particularly true of communist nations where governments have lived off control over the education of their people. Freedom of information has been a trademark of the West but a totally foreign concept to the East. This has left the people under communism virtually ignorant of the truths of democracy.

There is no guarantee that debates would make converts to democracy out of all people of the world but they could ease the doubts and fear on which the people of communist lands have been fed. Much could be accomplished toward peace if we could only remove the animosities between people of the various nations of the world. It is hoped that the debates in Germany come about as planned and find growing acceptance among nations.

Union Pacific Confidence

Announcement by the Union Pacific Railroad of its purchase for industrial development of a 985-acre tract of land northwest of Lincoln is a two-way proposition. It demonstrates the confidence of the road in Lincoln and Nebraska and it is a welcome move from the city's point of view.

The tract represents a record development in terms of size for both Lincoln and the UP, neither the railroad nor Lincoln having ever put together quite such a large area before. The railroad will have some $1 million invested in this industrial land speculation and its ultimate utilization will represent a substantial multiple of this original investment.

It anticipates a site ready for occupancy by the end of the year and if its experience in other areas is a measure of what will happen here, the occupancy date will not long go unfulfilled. In Denver, the railroad has put together four such tracts, two of them now completed and filled, with two under development and firm industrial commitments nearly to fill them.

It goes without saying that the Union Pacific has not invested to this extent in Lincoln without a conviction that the investment will pay off. It will pay off when industries begin to locate in the tract just east of the Lincoln Municipal Airport. Lincoln welcomes this entry by the UP as a partner in the development of the city and anticipates a future that is mutually beneficial to the railroad and all our citizens. Industrial development is a vital factor in our future and a highly competitive one. The UP action greatly enhances Lincoln's position in this area of its life.

U.S. Lags Europe

Italy now maintains a permanent set of offices in Moscow, seeking markets for Italian made goods. Britain's great Imperial Chemical Industries alone markets 19 per cent of its exports in Moscow. Japan is selling to Russia and striving for a bigger share. West German processors are probing the market for Russian needs and are now supplying them in increasing volume.

What does this add up to? Simply to the fact that our friends and allies are paying little attention to our resolution not to deal with the East. They may be friends, but they are not going to pass up a profitable market. Moreover, in what they are doing the effect of our trade embargo is made into a mockery. We know of nothing non-strategic now that can halt the progress of Russia. And in the strategic field they are doing quite well themselves.

Low Tax Rate For Oil Companies

WASHINGTON — President Johnson could finance the Viet Nam war without raising taxes simply by closing the oil loopholes and compelling the oil companies to pay their fair share of the tax load.

This is the view of Treasury experts, who estimate that the 20 top oil companies alone escaped paying $6 billion in taxes during the 1955-65 period. The taxes these 20 companies managed to avoid would finance the entire Viet Nam war for eight months.

Of course, every cent the oil companies do not pay must be made up by less privileged taxpayers. Even the smallest business and the lowest wage earners, for example, pay 20 per cent of their income in federal taxes. Yet the 22 largest oil companies paid only 4 per cent of their income to the U.S. Treasury in 1964, according to the latest available figures.

Though the oil companies try to suppress information about their tax payments, this column has learned that five oil companies—Atlantic, Marathon, Richfield, Sinclair and Sunray—paid no federal taxes at all in 1964.

Pure Oil paid only $600,000 on earnings of $32,282,000, which amounts to a tax rate of one hundredth of one per cent. Even the giant of the oil industry, Standard of New Jersey, paid only a 1.7 per cent rate. Uncle Sam took only $29,000,000 out of Standard Oil's whopping $1,628,555,000 gross.

Texaco, the number two oil company, did even better. Its $5,300,000 tax payment on a $660,761,000 income was only eight-tenths of one per cent. Standard of California paid $8,300,000 on a $393,188,000 income—a 2.1 per cent tax rate.

Standard of Indiana took in $204,817,000, paid only $3,486,000 in federal taxes. This was a cheap 4.1 per cent rate. Shell was taxed only 1.3 per cent—$2,800,000 on a $213,575,000 income.

The most glaring tax loophole is the 27½ per cent depletion allowance, which gives oil companies a tax rebate on the cost of every barrel taken from the ground. The argument is that the owner should be permitted to write off the declining value of his well.

However, he can go on taking the deduction long after he has recovered his investment. The figures show that, for the average oil well, the owner deducts from his taxes 19 times the original cost.

Other "golden gimmicks" have been less advertised. George E. Allen, the oil-rich pal of presidents, once confessed that the intangible drilling and development allowances were even more lucrative than the depletion allowances.

"Almost no one outside the industry knows about the intangible allowances," chuckled Allen.

While other corporations are socked the full 52 per cent corporate tax rate, oil companies end up paying a few percentage points. In 1963 it rose to 5 per cent. But in 1962, as in 1964, the rate for the top 22 companies was an average 4 per cent.

Draft Criticism Growing Hotter

WASHINGTON—The draft system of this democratic country theoretically must be above suspicion of favoritism. It is not so regarded, and the singular lack of congressional attention to the situation suggests an equally singular lack of public shame over a system which, by penalizing the poor, corrupts the comfortable.

Congress at long last seems to be stirring, however, which may indicate only its suspicion that the country is ahead of it on the issue. Nor does it seem probable that the administration will consent to a public airing of the draft so near to an election, especially when it has plans to escalate the ground forces in Viet Nam very soon.

The present flurry started with Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's public acknowledgment May 18 that there were inequities in the draft. This open confession was probably good for his soul, but it did not unlock the secret places where a Pentagon draft study, promised for June 1, 1965 delivery to Congress, still reposes.

Nor did the secretary, in the course of a mainly thoughtful address, suggest what might be done about it, instead floating a highly generalized proposal for two years of voluntary service by young Americans in peace and war activities. Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, who has been prodding the Pentagon for its study for many months, decided at that point that another approach was called for. He proposed the next day a presidential commission to review the draft and report to Congress next January.

The Nelson resolution is lying on the Senate table, inviting cosponsors. There has been no rush.

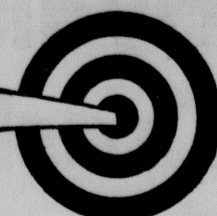

In the House, the small but articulate group of Republican moderates has decided not to wait upon its divided party for a decision to take up the issue. It has announced plans to press for an in-depth study of the draft by Congress to start quickly.

Their lead-off man is Rep. Robert Ellsworth of Kansas, who is challenging the re-nomination of Sen. James Pearson in the state primary next August. The argument will be continued by others and conclude with a statement by an alumnus of the group.

He is Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, who had the good fortune to get an appointment to an unexpired Senate term and will run for the full term this fall as an incumbent. Griffin believes that states, including Michigan, as well as persons are penalized by the present draft law.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Nebraska's power supply future is fast approaching the showdown stage.

A host of options were spelled out this week in a series of public power developments, some routine and one a bit explosive.

While some of the options—particularly two different proposals for major new generation plants—conflict directly with one another, all of them do not.

Three sources of outside power supply, keyed to construction of major new transmission lines and agreements to purchase large blocs of energy from outside Nebraska, were outlined for the Nebraska Power Review Board, power districts and perhaps, most particularly, the public on Monday.

Such power could come from the north over a new U.S. Bureau of Reclamation line or over a Basin Electric Power Cooperative intertie. Or it could come from the west over a transmission system carrying energy generated through the Mountain-Midwest Power Pool in Colorado.

The proposals for internal generation have come or will come from Consumers Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District.

Consumers is planning a 400,000 to 500,000-kilowatt unit which would probably be nuclear-powered. According to testimony before the Power Board last April 20, it would probably be located somewhere along the Missouri River on Nebraska's eastern border.

Platte has applied to the Power Board for authority to construct a 200,000 to 400,000-kilowatt plant in the Grand Island vicinity. It might be nuclear-powered, although Platte is far from a decision on that point.

The major conflict between those two plans is site.

Who will build the next generation plant to serve outstate Nebraska would essentially be a moot question if the State Supreme Court upholds the 1965 Legislature's power merger bill and permits the consolidated grid system to become operational July 1, as scheduled.

In that case, the grid system will build the next plant. But where?

If the generation unit were constructed at Grand Island, it could mesh with USBR or Basin Electric proposals to construct a north-south transmission line into central Nebraska. Indeed, this is the point which Platte hammered away at in its application to the Power Board, particularly the USBR possibility.

But Consumers is prepared to offer evidence to show that the more economical location of a new generation facility would be along the eastern border.

Presumably, Consumers would like to tie its proposed plant with the transmission System of the Mid-Continent Area Power Planners which stretches northward and eastward. Such was indicated in testimony before the Power Board on April 20.

Meanwhile, Consumers has agreed to a memorandum of understanding (according to testimony before the Power Board by Charles Brannan of Denver this week) to purchase 100,000 kilowatts of energy from the west if Mountain-Midwest receives Federal Power Commission approval to go ahead with its proposed development plans.

So, attempting to bring the complicated power supply puzzle into a little better focus, you could tie the Platte proposal generally in with proposed new transmission to the north particularly with the possibility of a USBR line.

And the Consumers plant could tie with the MAPP transmission system and eventually, through the Nebraska grid system, with power supply from the west.

At stake in the whole-around is power supply—and costs—for all of outstate Nebraska outside the service area of Omaha Public Power District.

Finishing up:

—Much ado about nothing, that's the inflated Band Day furor. Would Nebraska's largest newspaper would devote as much prime Sunday space to the real problems which face the state.

—Allen Burkhardt's campaign expenses for his State Board of Education primary contest totaled 10 cents, five cents postage to secure a filing blank and five cents postage to return the completed form.

—Bob Crosby, one of Nebraska's most glib and gifted governors, never took a course in political science in college.

—John Everroad told the GOP appreciation dinner for victorious primary candidates that he was particularly glad to be on hand since "it took two years to get an invitation." Everroad, nominee for lieutenant governor, failed in his first bid for that nomination in 1964. Fred Seaton, who was nominated but lost his general election bid for the governor's chair in 1962, followed with this observation: "I don't know what he's kicking about." Emphasis on he.)

—Postcard from a William Goldberg: "During the 1964 presidential campaign, my fearful friends kept telling me that if I voted for Goldwater, there would be war in Vietnam; taxes and prices would increase, and things would go from bad to worse. They were right. I voted for Goldwater."

—George Romney told Republicans in Lincoln last week that he can understand the dizzy ascent of Nebraska's football fortunes. After all, he pointed out, "your coach is from Michigan."

BOB CONSIDINE

A Father Writes To His Daughter

NEW YORK,

Dear Deb:

Cut out that nonsense about being 18 today. I refuse to permit you to be 18! A father wants his only daughter to stop all her clocks at the age of, say, 12. He wants to keep her there on the threshold of her real life as long as he lives.

Twelve was the year when the Christmas list you made out consisted of "a party dress, a new hat, a ring with a green stone, a junior miss brassiere and a football." Christmas afternoon in the yard of the old place in Alenhurst we practiced passes with the football. You threw the ball like Sammy Baugh, even though hampered by that optimistic brassiere.

Well, time flies for you. You now have a license to drive a lethal 2-ton earth-bound missile called an automobile at speeds up to 60 miles an hour. The great state of New York and many others give you leave if you wish to step into any bar and order up a quadruple martini, with a fifth of scotch for a chaser. If you move to Georgia or Kentucky, and have no criminal record, you can now vote. You're five years older than Juliet, baby.

You got a lively charge the other night out of showing me your term paper in French and asking me to proofread it, knowing that my own meagre knowledge of the language is such that I once nearly succumbed to starvation in Maxim's. I fell off your homework sled years ago, so far as helping you in math and the several other mystifying subjects you take in stride. And you stopped asking me to ghost English compositions for you after that C-minus you drew on my last one. That hurt. I put more time in on that than I do on my column.

Oh, yes, time indeed flies for you. Big plans to work as a copy girl on a magazine this summer . . . rent a car for weekends at the beach . . . buy something wild with your first week's salary . . . get things ready for going to college in the fall . . . dates . . .

But time doesn't fly very fast in a father's mind, where a daughter is concerned. At a given point, depending on the father, he wraps his daughter with loving care, deposits her in the back of his mind or his whimsy, and there she remains, timelessly jelled. Come what may, he prefers to think of her steadfastly in the image he has chosen—a rare creature concocted of sugar, spice, everything nice.

When your Mother and I took you to Luchow's last Sunday night for dinner, I noticed a couple of guys—must have been my age—give you the eye as we passed their tables. Burned me up, for I was thinking not about what you look like at 18 but as you looked the first time we took you to that grand old place. You sat in a high chair and threatened to weep if we took off your blue and white bonnet. I deplore repetition, but I often hear myself at cocktail parties regaling patient listeners with the thing you said when you were very little and had been exposed to one too many of our sores. You said, "Daddy, haven't we had this party before?"

Funny thing, when I talk to your three brothers I find myself using a different voice, and a lot of my statements seem to start with, "Well, when I was your age . . ." or "If you'll take my advice, you'll . . . I was never your age, and for you I have no advice. It would be superfluous.

Have a nice time on your double dates this weekend. I had halfway planned for us to play golf as we used to when you were the best little 12-year-old girl golfer I ever saw. I'll pick up somebody to play with at the course.

Love ya,

Dad

Reader Outraged By Proposal To Legalize Polygamy

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. "You don't sympathize with that crazy physician who wants to legalize polygamy among folks past 60? That was the most shocking proposal I ever heard of! My husband and I are 59, and if I thought he might bring home an extra wife I'd shoot him on his next birthday."

A. Don't get trigger happy. It was just a suggestion by Dr. Victor Kassel who notes there are four times more women than men past 60. He says that if we believe in equal opportunities, the only way we can give older women equal chance at a husband is to let men take multiple wives. He also ruminates about such possible advantages as greater companionship, better nursing care and higher standards of living stemming from pooled incomes.

Q. "That physician who advocates polygamy for older folks must be rotten to the core. Just because there are more old women than men would never offset the sinfulness of a man living with more than one wife."

A. You may be right. But sin probably isn't the right word. Sin is defined as a "transgression of the law of God," and the Bible doesn't condemn polygamy. The New Testament says nothing on the subject, and several references in the Old Testament actually endorse the idea.

Q. "I think the physician's idea is excellent. I'm 72 and have four rich widows vying for my attention. If I married all four I could live like a king, and they could be my princesses."

A. Don't get your hopes up. The one with the most muscle and money might decide to be queen—and you'd start wishing you were single again. The doctor's idea is provocative but pretty impractical. Most of our lawmakers are past 60 and their wives aren't going to let them put over any legislation that threatens their dominance in the household.

Q. "When we retired we bought a home in Florida and invited friends and relatives to visit. The only one who has come thus far is a spinster cousin we hadn't seen in years. She's been here eight weeks now and hasn't said a word about going, nor about helping with the grocery bill despite a teacher's pension. She's entertaining to have around and we feel sorry for her. But we want our privacy too. What can we do?"

A. You must start dropping some hints. And if she doesn't respond, you must candidly remind her that it's time to move along and make way for others who may want to use the guest room. Since you find your cousin entertaining, why not assist her in finding a home or apartment nearby? You can probably help fill a need in her life, and maybe she can fill a need in yours.

Court Reverses Ruling In Hall County Zoning Dispute

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled unanimously Friday that county boards have authority to designate industrial areas within the general zoning jurisdictions of all cities except Omaha.

Such industrial areas, if they have an assessed valuation of more than $100,000, are not subject to municipal annexation, except by Omaha and Lincoln, the court declared.

The high court thus reversed a Hall District Court ruling in a zoning squabble between the Hall County Board and the Grand Island City Council.

"A thorough consideration of the sometimes overlapping and sometimes conflicting provisions of the statutes dealing with general zoning jurisdiction and authority of cities and counties persuades us that the Legislature specifically contemplated that industrial areas to be designated by the county board could be located within the general zoning jurisdiction of cities," the tribunal declared.

It ruled valid Hall County Board actions taken in 1958 and 1963 which designated three areas within the one-mile zoning region of Grand Island as industrial areas.

The district court struck down the county board actions after the city of Grand Island zoned its one-mile deep zoning area for residential purposes.

The Supreme Court said the Hall County Board acted in accordance with the 1957 Industrial Areas Act, and "the findings required to be made by the county board before designating these areas as industrial areas are fully supported by the evidence."

The high court noted the county board made the industrial designations at the request of the affected property owners.

The court said a large part of Grand Island's arguments in the case were based on the contention that county boards could "strangle" cities through industrial area designations.

"Whether this legislation was wise or not is a question for the Legislature and not for this court to decide," the judges said.

They said the Industrial Areas Act does not apply to Omaha.

In another ruling Friday the court:

Upheld the city of Bellevue's annexation of 24 tracts of land located within the boundaries of the Eastern Sargy County Fire District.

The high court ordered that the annexed land be detached from the fire district and that the district have no further duty to furnish fire protection to the annexed area.

Court Refuses To Free Pen Inmate

The State Supreme Court refused Friday to order the release of State Penitentiary inmate Lee C. Clingerman, the second prisoner to fall in a freedom bid under the 1965 post conviction law.

The high court reprimanded Clingerman.

"Defendant's motion suggests he is at least reckless with the truth," the court said. "It is hard to understand how anyone under the circumstances could consider the word of a four-time loser rather than the record made while he was represented by competent counsel."

The court said it is "apparent to everyone" that the post-conviction law "affords a prisoner an opportunity to file a frivolous or false claim for relief," but it made clear that the law is designed to provide relief only "for those exceptional cases where the rights of a defendant have been ignored or abused."

The court said an examination of the record "conclusively shows that defendant's allegations are without merit" and the inmate was attempting to use the post conviction law as a means of gaining an appeal which he failed to take from his 1960 conviction.

Clingerman is serving a 15-year term for a Hall County conviction on charges of breaking and entering and being an habitual criminal.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Summer Activities Discussed

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Dear Dr. Nason:

My two high school students, a boy and a girl, need help in formulating plans for the summer. They will each be out of town in a summer camp for one week sometime during the middle of the summer but the rest of the summer they will be free and we would like to have them kept busy.

A.M., Woodbury, N.J.

Answer:

There are many opportunities for teen-agers to volunteer their services for community work during the summer. Assistants in recreation areas, especially small boat sailing and swimming, are needed. Many young people will serve as tutors in special educational programs for the disadvantaged. The list could go on and on. Many cities have a special office through which volunteer services are coordinated. Check your telephone directory or have your son and daughter make inquiries at the library or, perhaps, at your local newspaper to locate such an organization in your town.

Dear Dr. Nason:

Please advise my college son on his choice of courses for summer session. He is vacillating between a beginning course in calculus and one in American history; both of which are required. He would take both except that his summer job will consume too much of his time.

V.A., Richmond, Ind.

Answer:

The history course would be the better choice. It requires much reading, and reading time will certainly be available to your son since he is limiting himself to one course. Over the years I have found long series of courses during the short summer session are dissatisfied with the result. A better foundation for the subsequent calculus courses can be laid when the course is spread over a longer period of time than is possible during the summer. The only exception to this would be at a school operating under the quarter system in which a full quarter's work is offered during the summer months

COED plans summer wedding

Of particular interest to campus circles is the announcement being made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Trank of Alliance, of the betrothal of their daughter, Judy, to Robert Chaloupka, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Chaloupka of Callaway.

Plans are being made for a wedding on Aug. 21.

Miss Trank is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta. A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Mr. Chaloupka is attending the university's College of Law. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Phi Delta Phi law fraternity.

We Hear That

Spending the Memorial Day weekend in Lincoln is Mrs. Arthur Brown of Santa Monica, Calif., a former Lincoln resident. Mrs. Brown is the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. Mabel White.

From Seneca, Mo., comes news of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pittman on Monday, May 23. Mrs. Pittman is the former Mary Ann Loos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Loos of Lincoln.

News from Dallas, Tex., tells of the arrival of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Toman on Wednesday, May 25. Mrs. Toman is the former Alberta Kirchhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kirchhoff of Lincoln. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Corliss Toman of Fort Worth, Tex.

NEWS

of suburban areas

end and observing the Memorial Day holiday in a different manner. Many families left the city this morning to return to hometowns and visit with relatives or are welcoming those relatives into their own homes. In the news this morning are reports of a recently completed vacation, birthdays and a cabin in the woods.

EASTRIDGE

Since this is a morning in a brand new weekend, the news may as well start with a pair of newcomers to this suburban area. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wahl, long time Lincoln residents at 3940 Sheridan, finally finished their moving and unpacking routines and settled down at their new home at 1201 Eldon Dr. last Saturday.

Two courtesies were planned for the movers. Bidding goodbye to her neighbors at a Saturday morning breakfast was Miss Hazel Scott and welcome to their new neighbors but old friends to Eastridge were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Siegel who were host and hostess at a Saturday evening dinner at their home—just to relieve Mr. and Mrs. Wahl from some moving day pressures.

Other news at the Wahl's new home includes the expected arrival of the couple's son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wahl, who will motor from Columbus to spend the three-day weekend.

While many Lincoln residents are busy with travel and travelers, Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Rider are sitting quietly back this weekend enjoying the memories of a one-week vacation which took them west.

The twosome returned to Lincoln on May 16, and seemed to have made a great circle as their travels took them to Las Vegas, Nev., the Grand Canyon, Hoover Dam, and then into Arizona and visit in Phoenix and a stop in Santa Fe, N. Mex.

Friday morning marked a very important date in the life of Tom Harrington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Harrington. Tom, with seven of his sandpile playmates, celebrated his fifth birthday and noted with enthusiasm that next fall he can attend school. Tom and his guests were treated to a romp and picnic in Roberts Park by Mrs. Harrington.

Guests included Jimmy Hartsock, Curt Downs, Tom Fischbach, Kelley Cain, Kent and Mark Schmeckpeper, Donna Downing and Kim Yeutter.

Entertaining overnight guests Thursday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Morris D. Siegel who were host and hostess to friends Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Oswald of Minneapolis, Minn. But the visit was short as Mr. and Mrs. Oswald continued on their journey Friday to Hays, Kan. for a visit with relatives.

As to plans for this weekend, Mr. and Mrs. John H. J. Robel Jr. and their daughters, Denise and Jennifer, seem to have the right idea. The family is making its first overnight stay in their newly acquired cabin on Sherman Lake Reservoir near Loup City. But life won't be all fishing and sunning. Mr. and Mrs. Robel have planned some work details to complete the cabin.

AUGUST wedding is planned

The engagement of Miss Dianne Glovatsky of Lincoln to J. Wayne Hancock, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hancock of Fargo, N.D., is announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Glovatsky of Grassy Butte, N.D.

The wedding is planned for August and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. John's Church, Episcopal, in Dickinson, N.D.

Miss Glovatsky was graduated from Union College, and for the past year has been teaching in the Cheney Schools.

Mr. Hancock is a junior at Union College where he is majoring in theology.

Officers Installed

The May meeting of Clinton PTA, held last Tuesday evening at the school, featured a recognition program honoring the "graduating" 6th graders.

During the business meeting, the last of the current season, the following new officers were installed: president, Mrs. Dean Bergman; first vice president, Mrs. Zane Fairchild; second vice president, Mrs. Glen Hart; third vice presidents, Mrs. Daryld Metzger, Mrs. Robert VanOsdol and Mrs. Robert Jones; fourth vice presidents, Mrs. Robert Baker and Mrs. Richard Wollen; secretary, Mrs. John Hoover; and treasurer, Mrs. Weldon Linke.

CFG Trip

Friday was a day of accounting for the 10th grade Horizon Club members who totaled their funds and boarded the midnight train for a long weekend in Boulder, Colo.

Accompanied by their guardian, Mrs. Donald Pierce, they will visit a Horizon Club in Boulder, Colo., with which Mrs. Pierce and her daughter, Marilyn, were formerly associated.

BRIDE at afternoon service

Miss Sonya Harding of Boulder, Colo., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Harding, and granddaughter of Mrs. E. J. Sias, became the bride of Larry Keith Cundall, son of H. R. Cundall of Ft. Laramie, Wyo., and the late Mrs. Cundall, at an afternoon ceremony on Friday, May 27. Tall arrangements of white and yellow gladioli appointed the chancel of the Community Church of the Rockies in Estes Park, Colo., for the service, which was read by the Rev. E. Melvin Kessinger.

The maid of honor and the bride's only attendant was Miss Rita Joanne McCarville of Denver, who wore an Empire frock of butterscotch yellow crepe.

Francis Trenholm of Glendo, Wyo., served as best man, and seating the guests were Robert G. Mannion and Gary W. Flebb, Boulder, Colo.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of organza over silk in the candlelight tone. Appliques of pearl-embroidered lace patterned the front of the sculptured bodice, which was designed with elbow sleeves, and the lace motif was repeated at the hem of the slender skirt and in a wide panel on the redingote train which extended to cotillion length. Her tiered veil of silk illusion was held by a circlet of jeweled lace petals, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

The couple will reside in Boulder, where the bridegroom is a student at the University of Colorado and a member of the Varsity football team. Mrs. Cundall attended the University of Colorado.

TALK

We've known fancier weekends than the one at hand, but the lack of a brimming social calendar doesn't mean that there isn't a bit of fun scheduled.

Take the members of the Fifty-Niners Club, for instance. For them tonight is dinner dance night—at the Hillcrest Country Club. There is no special motif for the decor, so we hear—It's just a late spring party.

Planning the details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Barry, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Trumble and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Schroedermeier.

Six guest couples have been invited to dine and dance with the Fifty-Niners, and the group includes Mr. and Mrs. Bud Imlay, Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oehlerking and Mr. and Mrs. V. Max Lien.

Right now we'll take a hop, skip and jump to next weekend, with particular emphasis on Friday, June 3.

It is on Friday afternoon that Miss Mariel Jones will be a 4 o'clock tea hostess at her home when she compliments a visitor from Louisiana—Mrs. W. J. Durio of Arnaudville, La., who will be in Lincoln for the commencement weekend.

Just as we were about to tell you of a trip to Europe that a Lincoln resident was taking—with Monday scheduled as take-off day, we learned that a member of her family was unexpectedly hospitalized—So, since there is the possibility that all plans will be changed, we'll wait until another day.

One European trip brings to mind another—and some weekend homcomers—But we'll tell you about it on Monday.

Courtesies

The guest of honor at a recent pre-nuptial courtesy was Miss Karen Kay Lanning, University of Nebraska coed who has chosen June 4 for her marriage to Richard Longstein.

The bride-elect was honored at a surprise party for which Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters were hostesses at the chapter house. A personal shower was presented to Miss Lanning during the party, given by Miss Jane Gregorius, Miss Beverly Carbone and Miss Penny Hulac.

One of the season's popular bride-elects is Miss Susan Cunningham, whose marriage to John Porter Moreland will be an event of Saturday, June 4.

Miss Cunningham was honored at a luncheon in Tecumseh on Wednesday, May 18, when Mrs. Judd Douglas was hostess at her home. Co-hostess was Mrs. Paul Naeve of Cook.

Other pre-nuptial courtesies for the bride-to-be include the family party given by Mrs. Howard Hall, and the bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Roland Taylor given by members of Chapter DX, PEO, of which both Miss Cunningham and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Moreland, are members.

For the marriage of Miss Delores Wimp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wimp, to the Rev. Larry Hessler, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Peter Hessler of Scottsbluff, which was solemnized Friday evening, May 27, lighted white candles and bouquets of spring blossoms decorated the chancel of the First Assembly of God Church. The 7 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. S. K. Biffle, and Mrs. William F. Lutes, organist, played the wedding music. The vocal soloist was the Rev. James Hessler of Cavalier, N.D.

Mrs. Charles Chandler, as the matron of honor, and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Albert J. Vidal, wore alike, long-skirted frocks in the lilac shade and carried white carnations tipped in lavender.

Serving as best man was the Rev. James Hessler of Cavalier, N.D., and the groomsmen were the Rev. Donald Stuckless, Scottsbluff; Steven Biffle and Robert Lybarger.

The bride selected white lace and tulle for her wedding gown. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was fashioned with a scalloped, sabrina neckline accented with pearls and the bouffant skirt of tulle was completed by an overskirt of the lace draped at the back into a cascade of lace ruffles. A cluster of jeweled organza and lace petals held her illusion veil, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a lavender orchid and white rosebuds.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hessler will make their home in Scottsbluff.

NU Seniors Honored

Graduating seniors of Sigma Kappa sorority at the University of Nebraska were honored guests on Monday evening when the alumnae entertained at the home of Mrs. William Maly. Assisting Mrs. Maly as hostess was Mrs. Allen Swailes.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♦	Pass	1♥
Pass	2♦	Pass	3♥
Pass	3NT

Opening lead—six of clubs.

This hand occurred in the match between Italy and the United States in 1961. The bidding went as shown when the North-South cards were held by an American pair.

West led a club and the Italian East-West pair cashed five clubs and the ace of spades to defeat the contract two tricks—100 points.

Obviously, three notrump was a poor contract, and the question at the time was whether the proper contract of four hearts could reasonably have been reached.

Of course, North could have bid four hearts over three notrump and gotten to the right contract in that way, but most experts were of the opinion that North's pass of three notrump was proper and that there was no good reason for him to think that a ten-trick game would be easier to make than a nine-trick game.

The blame was generally placed upon South for having bid three notrump without a club stopper. Practically all the analysts agreed that South should have bid three spades over three hearts, in which case North undoubtedly would have bid four hearts.

A three spade bid—clearly just fold your hands--for one day

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: First let me explain that I have five children (two are not in school yet), a nine-room house to take care of, and no one to help me. When my husband comes home from work he always asks, "What do you do around here all day?" Abby I could sock him! How should I answer this?

BOILING IN DOVER, N.H.

DEAR BOILING: Don't answer him. But tomorrow, do absolutely NOTHING! And when your husband comes home and finds the beds unmade, breakfast and lunch dishes piled in the sink, the laundry basket spilling over with unironed clothes, and not a trace of supper started, he will demand, "WHAT HAPPENED ANYWAY?" Then it's your cue to say, "You're always asking me what I do around here all day. Well, today, I didn't do it!"

DEAR ABBY: Some good friends of ours went on an extended trip thru the orient recently and ever since, each time we enter their house, we are a captive audience for the slides they took. The last time, we had to be almost rude to get away at 2:30 a.m. They took 2,000 (honest!) pictures, and at 15 seconds each, I figure we still have another six solid hours of viewing ahead, not counting reruns.

Abby, we are genuinely fond of these people, and are interested in their experiences, but if only they would organize their presentation and edit out the underexposed, repetitious, and redundant, the slides could be fascinating. I am sure our sentiments are shared by many. Any advice for us stay-at-homes?

FOND FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: Yes. Avoid their home until the novelty of that trip has worn off. For some strange reason, friends who accept criticism on everything else with good humor and equanimity, become hostile when guests take a dim view of their slides.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Four of the seven amateur golfers who made bids for berths in this year's U. S. Open in local qualifying Monday at the Lincoln Country Club will be in the field for the Great Plains Classic at Holmes Park Sunday.

Charlie Borner, the University of Nebraska golfer who earned a spot in the June 6 sectional qualifying round at Kansas City, Mo., with a 10-over-par 154 in Monday's local qualifying, tops the list.

Borner, a former Lincoln city champion and runner-up in the Nebraska State Amateur

This year, Borner will team with Matt Taber, the south-paw swinger who has won the Lincoln city title the past two years.

Taber failed to gain one of the top three spots in Monday's U.S. Open qualifying. Bob Golonka of Columbus and Al Ludwig of Omaha, both of whom also failed in the U.S. Open qualifying, are in Sunday's field.

Golonka will team with Wilson Dukes of Central City and Ludwig will have Dick Dykes of Omaha as his partner in the two-man, best-ball competition.

POTT STILL LEADS FIELD

Lema Moves Into 2nd Place

... OKLAHOMA CITY OPEN GOLF

Oklahoma City (AP)—Long-hitting Johnny Pott continued his torrid pace in the $57,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament Friday by shooting a three-under-par 69 in the second round.

Pott, whose 64 Thursday set a course record at the 7,173-yard Quail Creek Golf and Country Club course, held a four-stroke lead over veteran Tony Lema and young Tom Weiskopf.

Pott had a 11-under 133 for 36 holes. Lema, who suffered a two-stroke penalty on the 15th hole, finished with a 68 for 137. Weiskopf, one of the young bright lights on the PGA tour, had a 69 for his 137.

From there it dropped to 139 for Texan Terry Dill. Holding fourth place at 140 were Don Massingale, Butch Baird and Bruce Devlin.

For the second straight day, light breezes prevailed over the usually gusty course. Pott, playing for his fifth straight year at Quail Creek, took a bogey on his next to last hole—his first during the tournament. He hit every green but wasn't as close to the pin as he was Thursday when he took only 26 putts.

Lema was almost disqualified from the tourney for signing an erroneous score card, but Quail Creek pro Ernie Vossler caught him before he signed it and pointed out a drop violation which had occurred in ground repair on the 15th.

The penalty, which came for failing to seek the nearest relief in dropping, put a damper on a brilliant round of 66 which would have put him only two strokes back of Pott.

Weiskopf, who ranks 13th among money winners in his second year on the tour, had four birdies and one bogey on his way to his 69.

Earlier, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player rallied from over par scores Thursday to respectable two-under 70s.

Nicklaus was tied with seven at 143. Player was farther back at 146.

Seventy-eight golfers made the cutoff point of 148.

Last Indianapolis Practice Held

... ANDRETTI POSTS FASTEST TIME OF DAY

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP)—The last practice session Friday for the 50th 500-mile race Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway followed a month-long script. Mario Andretti again ran faster than anybody else.

The little Italian-born driver from Nazareth, Pa., practiced at 160.6 miles per hour in the final carburetor tests, indicating he expects to race at that speed. He qualified at a record 165.899 but not with full fuel tanks.

Arnie Knepper of Belleville, Ill., was the surprise of the final three-hour session, run-

Courts May Settle Pro Grid Case

Los Angeles (AP)—The involved case of quarterback Roman Gabriel may be settled in court.

The Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League say Gabriel belongs to them—this year, 1967 and 1968.

The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League say Gabriel belongs to them for at least three years, starting in 1967.

Friday, Gabriel stood by his original statement that he is a Ram and a Ram he will remain "for many years to come."

That would seem to settle the issue, except—Oakland General Manager Scotty Stirling contends that he signed the 6-foot-4 NFL veteran at 12:05 a.m. Monday in an Oakland motel, with the contract to go into effect for the 1967 AFL season.

"We were contacted through a third party and Gabriel came to Oakland Sunday night. I had a long conversation with him and he signed a contract with us early Monday morning," Stirling said.

"I feel we have a legal and binding agreement for his services to begin in 1967."

"His agreement with us provides that he would not sign with the Los Angeles Rams or any other football team beyond the 1966 season."

"If he has signed, then our agreement has been violated and our next course of action would be determined after consultation with counsel. We feel that we have a very, very good case."

Stirling's statement came a few hours after the Rams announced Thursday that Gabriel was in their fold.

last practice session Friday for the 50th 500-mile race Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway followed a month-long script. Mario Andretti again ran faster than anybody else.

The little Italian-born driver from Nazareth, Pa., practiced at 160.6 miles per hour in the final carburetor tests, indicating he expects to race at that speed. He qualified at a record 165.899 but not with full fuel tanks.

Arnie Knepper of Belleville, Ill., was the surprise of the final three-hour session, running his Indianapolis-built Cecil-Ford at 160.514. That was faster than his 10-mile qualifying run, 159.440, when he had the track all to himself.

Jimmy Clark of Scotland, last year's winner, had some valve trouble which probably will be cured before Monday and ran no faster than 156. A. J. Foyt of Houston, 1961 and 1964 winner, and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., former qualification record holder, were flagged off the track for leaking oil. Foyt didn't believe it, had a cross words with a technical committee representative, and crawled under the car to check the fittings himself.

Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., whose new all-American Eagle Venture has five cars in the field, was running smoothly a little over 157 m.p.h.

Observers reported a bolt fell from Andretti's car but it evidently wasn't important because he did his fastest running after a checkup.

Drivers of all the starting cars except four took advantage of the short carburetor session. Missing, with the cars still being worked on, were rookie Carl Williams, Kansas City, Mo.; Bud Tingstad, Hawthorne, Calif.; Graham Hill, London, and Eddie Johnson, Richmond Heights, Ohio.

Three Homers Power Reds Past Cardinals

PINSON HITS TWO IN 6-5 WIN

St. Louis (AP)—Three home runs, two of them by Vada Pinson, helped Cincinnati build an early lead, and the Reds hung on for a 6-5 victory over St. Louis Friday night.

The first three Cincinnati hits off Cardinal starter Art Mahaffey were homers with Pinson connecting in the first, Tommy Helms in the third and Pinson again in the fourth.

The Reds chased Mahaffey with two singles and an error filling the bases after Pinson's second homer. John Edwards' sacrifice fly delivered one run and Jim Maloney's single brought another in.

That gave Maloney a 5-0 lead, but the Cardinals fought back against the hard-throwing right-hander and finally knocked him out in seventh with a three-run rally. One of the runs came home on a double by Curt Flood, who drove in four runs in the game.

Billy McCool pitched out of the jam and held St. Louis off the rest of the way for his fifth save. The victory was Maloney's fifth without a loss.

Rookie Sparks Baltimore To 4-2 Victory Over A's

Kansas City (AP)—Rookie catcher Andy Etchebarren drove in two runs and scored another as Baltimore defeated Kansas City 4-2 Friday night.

Etchebarren singled Sam Bowens home in the seventh, breaking a 2-2 tie and the Orioles added another run in the eighth on a bases-loaded passed ball.

Omaha, Minot Trade Wins

Omaha, Neb. (AP)—Minot, N.D., State and Omaha University traded shutouts Friday night in the NAIA Area 3 baseball playoff. Minot took the first game, 3-0, and Omaha the second, 1-0. The third and deciding game will be played tonight.

Jim Lemke, now 8-0, set Omaha down with 6 hits in the opener and his teammates gave him a 3-0 first inning edge. Minot turned in four double plays. Minot got 6 of its 7 hits in the first inning.

Jack Holder limited Minot to 4 hits in the second game, with Omaha getting the winning run in the third on Bill Myers single.

Top Prep Stars In Track Field

Cozad (UPI) — State prep champs from Kansas and Nebraska and numerous other top performers from the recent state high school championships in both states have registered for competition in the Junior Division of the Midstates Federal Track and Field championships here Monday.

Among the performers will be Omaha Tech half-mile champ, Arvie George, the gold medal winner at the Nebraska high school meet in Kearney last week.

Bill Behan of Oakley, Kan., tops the contestants in the mile with a previous 4:23 clocking. But he is expected to get a stout challenge from Omaha's Bob Tupper, second in class A; Tom Housel of Lexington, second in class B; and Cliff Colglazier of Grant, class C champion.

Smith Leads Angel Victory

Detroit (AP)—Willie Smith drove in two runs and scored another as the California Angels edged Detroit 3-2 Friday night.

Smith doubled in two runs in the first inning after a walk, Rich Reichardt's single and an infield out.

Smith led off the fourth inning with a single, advanced to third on a single by Ed Kirkpatrick and scored as Bobby Knoop tied out.

Marcelino Lopez stopped the Tigers on three hits, one of them Norm Cash's home run, until the ninth.

Phillies Wallop Giants By 9-2

San Francisco (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies erupted for six runs in the fifth inning Friday night and trounced the San Francisco Giants 9-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Larry Jackson.

The Phillies chased starter Ray Sadecki in the fifth, the fourth straight time the left-hander failed to last since coming to San Francisco from St. Louis May 8 in the trade for Orlando Cepeda.

KC's Causey Goes To Sox; A's Get Cater

Kansas City (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced Friday night they had traded infielder Wayne Causey to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Danny Cater and an unannounced amount of cash.

Causey had a .228 batting average. He had been platooned at third base with Ed Charles and had played shortstop. He was the oldest player on the A's roster in point of service, joining the club in 1961.

Causey, 29, had his best season with the A's in 1963 and 1964 when he batted .280 and .281. Last season his average dropped to .261.

Cub starter Ernie Broglio also was clouted for a homer by Mack Jones in the third.

Atlanta's Wade Blasingame took his third verdict against three losses although he was lifted after six innings.

Driver Called Key To Safety

Detroit may build a safer car, but most of the responsibility for highway safety today still rests in the hands of the driver, some 100 persons attending the Legislative Workshop on Traffic Safety in Lincoln were told Friday.

However, there are places where states are going to have to do things they haven't done before, guest speaker Rulless E. MacCleery, manager of the field services department of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said.

In essence "the approach is long range in nature and is basically a grass roots problem," MacCleery said.

He warned against putting too much stress on the "safer" auto. Stressing this point too much may tend to make drivers complacent, he said.

Not At Any Speed
"The owner of one of these safe cars may get the idea he can drive any speed in any physical conditions, which is incorrect," MacCleery warned.

Although traffic fatalities are mounting, MacCleery cited figures that indicate things could be much worse.

In 1935, he said, the death rate on American highways was 15.9 persons per 100 million miles driven. By 1965 that figure has been reduced to 5.6 traffic fatalities per 100 million miles.

Had there been no decrease in the 1935 figure, 140,000 persons would have died in traffic accidents in 1965, instead of some 50,000.

MacCleery attributed part of the reduction of deaths to education and more astute legislation.

Auto safety is the second most talked about subject in Washington today. Viet Nam is first, MacCleery said.

However, nothing will, or can be accomplished in the way of traffic safety until the problem is tackled from the local level, "from local groups such as you," he said.

First of its Kind
Gov. Frank Morrison and Rep. Clair Callan launched Friday's workshop, the first of its kind, by urging citizens to exercise leadership in traffic safety.

The governor said the Legislature will not approve such laws "until the public demands it... and that time is now."

Morrison, who said he is alarmed at the increasing number of deaths being recorded on Nebraska roads, noted that the fatality rate is up 43% from this time last year and is running 13% ahead of 1964 when a record 402 persons were killed.

The workshop was called to develop a legislative program for the 1967 Legislature.

Sweeping changes in Nebraska's traffic laws were recommended in an attempt to reduce the number of highway fatalities and injuries.

The delegates to the workshop, first of its kind in the state, called for a highly intensified traffic safety program at the state level.

Required Training
Proposed legislation would, among other things, require driver training for youths between 16 and 18 years of age, driver license re-examination each four years, periodic safety inspections of all vehicles, creation of a state safety coordinating division and licensing of all drivers and vehicles, including farm implements, which travel on public roads.

State Accident Records Bureau Chief Tom Ryan said the latter proposal might reduce the number of tractor accidents in the state.

School Board, LEA Meeting On New Salaries Not Likely

Robert Magee, new president of the Lincoln Board of Education, said Friday that a special meeting to discuss the recently adopted teacher salary schedule with the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) probably would not be called.

Magee said that after contacting a majority of school board members, "we did not feel it necessitated a special board meeting."

The LEA council, expressing disappointment at the pay raises approved by the board for next year, requested an informal meeting between the Board of Education and the LEA executive council or appointed members "at as early a date as possible."

The professional organization sought the special meeting to present results of a salary questionnaire that have not been made public and "ask for an explanation of the schedule as adopted by the board."

The approved salary increases amounted to 5% on the average, Lincoln Supt. Dr. Steven Watkins noted.

The next regularly scheduled board meeting is June 14, in the week following the close of school.

LEA President Robert L. Johnson declined comment about the decision not to call a special meeting.

Shooting Incident At Union College Last Fall Prompts Damage Suit

A $111,142 damage suit was filed in Lancaster District Court Friday in connection with a shooting incident last fall at Union College which resulted in Darlene Binder's loss of one eye.

The suit was filed on behalf of Miss Binder, who is a student at the school, by her guardian, Ted Stotz, against Theo H. Powell, who allegedly fired the shot, and the college and its officials.

The plaintiff alleges that Powell kept the pistol in a conspicuous place in his room at the dormitory and that the school has a regulation concerning possession of and the use of firearms, by students and that they are prohibited in the residence halls. It further alleges that officials were negligent in not inspecting the room and in not regulating the conduct of the students of the school.

Rating Groups Up Most Insurance Policy Costs

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A rate increase and other adjustments for "homeowners" package-type insurance policies in Nebraska were announced Friday by the rating organizations for most insurance companies doing business in the state.

State Insurance Director Frank Barrett, who also announced his approval of the homeowners policy changes, said the new rates become effective Tuesday.

Principal change in all policies issued after that date will be the automatic deductible applying to all claims except those involving public liability coverage.

Limited
Previously, the deductible was required only in western Nebraska and limited to wind and hail damage.

The rate change and adjustments were made by the Multi-Line Insurance Rating Bureau, Nebraska Insurance Bureau and Transportation Insurance Rating Bureau, rating organizations for most property insurance companies writing in Nebraska.

Homeowners policies are written for three years and include reimbursement for loss caused by fire, storms and other perils as well as comprehensive personal liability coverage and theft insurance.

For the most widely sold homeowners insurance policy forms, the deductible will be $50. Under the "all-risk" policy, the deductible will be $100.

However, either form will have a "disappearing" deductible, which increases as the size of the claim increases. There is no deduction when the claim reaches $500.

The rating bureaus said the premiums for most policy holders will remain the same except the deductible feature will be applied.

There will be an increase in policies already having the deductible and also for the "all-risk" form.

Nebraska insurance losses have been severe for the past several years. In 1964, companies paid claims and expenses of $1.83 for every dollar of premium received and the comparable figures were $1.21 in 1963 and $1.62 in 1962.

The rating bureaus said the automatic deductible, it is hoped, will enable companies to reach a break-even point by eliminating minor claims and the high expense of handling them.

"Property insurance is designed to protect against severe financial loss and not pay for ordinary repairs which are actually maintenance costs," they said.

Another reported factor in the rate increase was the series of storms which plagued the state during the last few years.

DOWNPOUR IN ATLANTA

A severe thunderstorm that quickly dumped almost an inch of rain on Atlanta, Ga., slowed traffic to almost a crawl. Water was bumper-high. And in West Texas Friday, torrential rains set off flash flooding and lightning described as "an awesome display." Midland, Tex., had 2.40 inches of rain officially, but unofficial amounts ranged from 1 1/2 to 4 inches. At least one death was attributed to the storm.

CONCORDIA . . . Students Give Blood For U.S. Troops

Seward—Students at Concordia Teachers College gave more than 300 pints of blood Friday for the men in Viet Nam.

A Red Cross Bloodmobile from Omaha accepted the blood from volunteers. The project was initiated by student body vice president Dan Thurber. He was assisted in planning and administration by students Dennis Berens, Judy Boxck, Juanita Paulson and Lynn Ponivas.

The blood was given to the Department of Defense for direct use in Viet Nam. Students say that the project does not necessarily serve as an endorsement of the Viet Nam war but does fulfill a Christian obligation to help fellow men.

Bustards Mate

Jaipur, India (AP)—A lonely female of the almost extinct Great Indian Bustard family, the only one of her kind in captivity, has been mated with a male captured in the desert wastes of the Rann of Kutch. The long-legged, crane-like great bustards are among the largest of birds.

House Interior Group Okay Of Mid-State Seen

Washington (AP)—A possibility that the $84 million Mid-State Reclamation Project in Nebraska will be approved by the House Interior Committee has been reported.

Commissioner Floyd E. Dornay of the Reclamation Bureau testified at a recent closed door session of a House Appropriations subcommittee he believed it is likely there would be early passage of a bill to authorize the project.

Dornay said he was advised by Chairman Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee that he expects to hold final hearings on the bill.

"There is a possibility this project will be recommended to the House for authorization this year," Dornay told the Appropriations Subcommittee noted no additional funds had been budgeted for the project's planning for the year beginning July 1.

New School For Harrison Okayed On Second Try

Harrison (AP)—A $400,000 bond issue for construction of a new high school at Harrison passed the voters after having been defeated previously.

The school will replace present facilities.

The bond issue was defeated last November by a slim margin but passed the second time on a percentage of 57.1. The vote was 293 for and 228 against. A 55% majority was required.

Power Chairman Replies

... TO ACCUSATION BY WAGENER

The chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board Friday responded to accusations that the board has held secret meetings and is "meddling" in long-range planning activities of power districts.

The response came in a letter from William Norton of Osceola to Frederick Wagener of Lincoln, a member of the board of directors of Consumers Public Power District.

Wagener had leveled his charges in a news release earlier this week.

On the charge that the board has held a secret meeting of select power people this week to discuss Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District's application to construct a new generation plant, Norton wrote:

"On Monday of this week, the Power Board was invited to attend a meeting of persons interested in the electrical industry in this state.

Not The First
"This is not the first of meetings of this type, which are informal and are used by the board for background purposes. Such meetings have been held with officials from other utilities, including Consumers Public Power District, on past occasions.

"I would venture to say that it would not be the last of such meetings.

"Prior to this particular meeting, the Power Board had been advised that an application would be filed at a future date on the part of Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District to construct generation facilities in Nebraska.

"Four of the five members of the Power Board attended this meeting briefly, and left before it was concluded. At that time, the Power Board members in attendance made the following representations to those other persons present:

Prerequisite
"that the Power Board continued to be principally interested at this time in firm interconnections, which are a prerequisite to large generation in Nebraska;
"that the presence of the board was not to be construed in any way as an indication of its support of the application to be filed; and

"that the future ruling of the Supreme Court in the matter of the constitutionality of LB764 (the power merger bill) would have far-reaching effects upon any application made at this time.

"The Power Board was advised as follows:

"that the application would be made with a request that any consideration of the same be held until the decision on LB764 and the results of the NPIC (long-range power supply) study; and

"that in the event LB764 were to be upheld, the application would be assigned to the Grid Board for any further action."

Must Be Informed

As for charges of meddling, Norton wrote:
"As it is the responsibility of the Power Review Board to pass upon all generation and transmission proposed in Nebraska, the members of that board must be fully informed.

"This obligation exists, and as long as the Power Board is in operation, it will be exercised over all utilities in this state, including the Grid Board, if and when it comes into existence."

And, in reply to Wagener's request to the industry that applications for generation be withheld pending final court action on the power merger bill, Norton wrote:

"... let me say that in my opinion the situation has become so critical in this state by lack of action that I deem it unwise not to be realistic and to continue to plan for possible solutions, even though the final decision on an application for permission to construct may pass to another group, specifically, the Grid Board."

Callan: State Missing Mental Health Funds

Rep. Clair Callan said Friday night that Nebraska has allowed nearly $266,000 in federal funds to "slip through our fingers" by failing to qualify for federal mental health funds.

"I don't think Nebraska, or any other state for that matter, is doing such a fine job in the field of mental health that it can pass up such a grant," Callan told the Lancaster County Association for Mental Health.

The congressman urged his audience to "use your influence to see that the Nebraska state plan (to qualify for federal funds) is submitted as soon as possible and that we make the most of this exceptional opportunity to improve our mental health services."

Dismayed
Every effort must be made to qualify for federal funds under the Community Mental Health Centers Act, the First District Democrat said.

"I am really dismayed by

PATROL SET FOR HOLIDAY

The Nebraska Safe Patrol, bolstered by added trooper experience and all available equipment, was prepared Friday for an all-out effort to curb traffic accident bloodshed in the state over the Memorial Day weekend.

Col. Dan Casey, Patrol chief, said the 239 patrolmen will be concentrated in areas which have had high accident frequency rates in the past.

As many as seven airplanes and 13 radar units could be pressed into service, he said, and a number of crews will make spot checks of vehicles and motorists in an attempt to prevent accidents.

"We're not trying anything new this year," Col. Casey said, "but the force has more experience and more equipment."

our own state's failure to take advantage of these new programs," Callan said.

The federal legislation provides for a sharing of responsibility by the federal, state and local governments in the construction of community centers.

Up To 66.7%

Federal funds are available to pay for up to 66.7% of the construction costs and up to 70% of staffing costs during the first 15 months of operation.

"I understand that our state plan may be filed soon," Callan said, "but it is already too late for us to collect any of the funds allocated to us for fiscal 1965."

Student-Parent NU Orientation Program Is Set

University of Nebraska officials announced Friday a third series of two-day summer orientation programs for entering students and their parents will begin June 15 and continue through Aug. 5.

Last year 4,500 students and parents participated in the program, which is aimed at giving both insight into college life and its responsibilities.

Cheese Factory Set For Ravenna

Ravenna (AP)—Agreement has been reached between the Ravenna Civic Development Corporation and LeRoy Wadzinski of Junction City, Wis., for construction of a building for the manufacture of cheese in Ravenna.

Architect's plans call for a building costing about $50,000. The site has not yet been selected.

Judge Smith Will Preside At Trial Of James Hurley

O'Neill (UPI)—District Judge William C. Smith Jr. of Ainsworth has been appointed to preside at the murder trial of James Hurley, 17, accused of killing Julee Armstrong, 17, of Ponca.

No date has been set for the trial.

Smith has appointed Rodney Smith of South Sioux City as prosecuting attorney in the case.

Both Dixon County Atty. Merle Kingsbury and Dist. Judge John Newton of Dixon County disqualified themselves from the trial because of their familiarity with the principals involved.

Mary Ryan, also a Sioux City attorney, will represent Hurley.

Food Money For India

Geneva (UPI)—Member churches of the World Council of Churches have raised $1.6 million dollars in the council's $3 million campaign to fight hunger in India. The council said 20 nations, including the United States, have contributed.

Stocks Higher In Snow Mart

New York (AP)—The stock market Friday had its slowest session since last August but mounted a surprising rally in the closing minutes, giving the list its sixth straight daily advance.

Volume was 4.79 million shares compared with 6.09 million Thursday and was the smallest since Aug. 30 when 4.4 million shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.29 to 897.04.

The immence of the three-day Memorial Day weekend was the reason for the extreme caution and reluctance to take positions, brokers said.

The market had a fairly favorable background of news all day but pre-weekend caution turned the list into a hedgehog of grains and a lodges of most of the session. The early trend was a bit lower. The final buying drive changed that in minutes.

Late news that U.S. Steel is reactivating 60 coke ovens due to high demand for steel seemed to have little effect on New York Stock Exchange dealings but it boosted U.S. Steel on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange after the market close in New York.

U.S. Steel ended the day at 43 1/4, a rise of 1/4 on the Big Board.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 4 to 324.7 with industrials up 1.3, rails off .3 and utilities unchanged.

Of 1,381 issues traded, 629 rose and 448 fell. Highs for the year totaled 15 and lows 54.

Butcher Hog Prices Climb

Omaha (AP)—Butcher hogs ranged 25 to 75c higher at Omaha Friday.

Fed steers and heifers sold steady.

All sheep classes were steady.

Butchers Hit Highest Peak In 3 Months

Chicago (AP)—The butcher hog market hit its highest peak in almost three months Friday with trade active and prices 50 cents to $1.50 higher.

More than 200 head sold at $27.50 to $30.00 on Thursday's best. Other mixed No. 1 and 2 grades brought $26.50 and up and mixed 1-3 $25.50 to $26.50. Mixed 2s and 3s cleared at $20.50 to $25.00. Sows reached 20.25.

Slaughter steers sold steady to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. A few prime grade topped the market at $25.50 to $26.75 and mixed high choice and prime at $26.50 to $27.50.

No sales were reported in the sheep market.

Speaker Eyes Exploring Of Knowledge

The exploration of knowledge by personal encounter was advocated Friday night by Prof. Bernice D. Sote, professor of English at the University of Nebraska.

In a speech prepared for delivery at Nebraska Wesleyan University's Phi Kappa Phi banquet opening event of the school's commencement weekend, Miss Sote suggested Lincoln and Nebraska as a good place to start the exploration.

"This place has more glamour, mystery, excitement in its authentic history than any fake Indian feathers could ever create," she said.

"A great many people have considered that everything is known about everything. Everything is not known about anything, and you might as well start right here."

She cited several examples to demonstrate "that the truth about Nebraska may be different from what you think."

"Did you know that in 1891 people wore formal dress to the opening of the new Lincoln Theater at 13th and 'P' in Lincoln? That in 1892 in Omaha 2,000 people heard Sarah Bernhardt play in Sardou's 'La Tosca'? That in 1893, after a summer drought and bank failures, a pre-theater party in Lincoln had a menu of 24 items, beginning with blue points on the shell?"

"What we read seems certainly true, and yet the world must be aware in illusion, in history that never happened, in ghost cities and stuffed men created by advertising firms."

"But when the past is alive, the present is extended. When the unknown is discovered, the discoverer also changes himself."
